

About Dolcera

(www.dolcera.com)

Located in Silicon Valley and Hyderabad, India, Dolcera was founded in 2004 as a professional services organization with a strong technology bent. Our focus is on providing clients with the technical, intellectual property and business information they need to develop new products and ideas, and to understand the competitive landscape and market environment. A particular focus of the organization is to apply tools such as wikis, data visualization, and information analysis to the challenge of finding and using relevant information in the age of data overload.

Our clients include a number of the world's largest legal and technical firms.
